

Quality Policy

Alpha Anodising UK Ltd are committed to effective implementation of a Quality Management System which satisfies the requirements of BS EN ISO 9001 and SAE AS 9100. We are also committed to satisfying all regulatory requirements.

It is the responsibility of all employees to ensure ongoing compliance with the relevant Quality Procedures.

It is the objective of the Company to seek continual improvements in all aspects of service quality and to ensure that all contracts are completed to our customers' specifications on time. These objectives are reviewed at our management review meetings.

We understand that from time to time there will be changes to specification requested by our customers. It is our aim to ensure that all changes are always recorded, costed (where appropriate) and where agreed, implemented quickly and efficiently.

Staff training and regular reviewing and updating of our Quality Management System is of the utmost importance, and will ensure that our objectives continue to be met in the most cost effective manner.
